Courses Taught

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH DAKOTA

2017 - Current

EDL 501 Leadership and Organizational Behavior: This course provides school leaders with preparation in skills for providing purpose and direction for individuals and groups, shaping school culture and value, facilitating the development of shared strategic vision for the school, formulating goals and planning change efforts with staff, and setting priorities for one's school in the context of community and district priorities for student and staff needs.

EDL 503 Seminar Educational Leadership: This course provides an orientation to the EDL masters' and specialists' programs. This course will also introduce students to the 21st Century School Administrators Skills (iD21), which are the skills students are expected to master prior to graduation. The EDL dispositions, which students are assessed on throughout their program will also be introduced. Furthermore, the students will be introduced to graduation requirements, as well as ND State credential and licensure requirements.

EDL 511 Effective Administrative Communications: This course prepares aspiring school leaders to plan for their personal and professional development; understand and use the principles of interpersonal, oral, and written communication.

EDL 516 Education Finance and Policy: Includes such topics as the organization of and responsibility for education in the United States at the federal, state, and local levels; basic administrative theories, processes, and techniques; and major areas of concern in the operation of local schools. The course includes an experiential learning assignment in which students complete a budget project.

EDL 519 Principalship: This course provides school leaders with an understanding of the role of the building principal along with skills and techniques associated with the principalship. The topics include the principal's role in community and family relationships and collaboration, using community resources to support the academic and social needs of students and families, the development and application of policies related to students and staff, planning and delivering of curricular and cocurricular programs within the school, and the principal's role in working with staff.

EDL 520-522 Principal Field Study: This course provides a field-based experience in the role of the elementary, middle, and/or high school principal.

EDL 523 The Educational Plant: The purpose of this course is to provide a study of the planning, construction, modification, and maintenance of school buildings and complimentary facilities such as playgrounds, athletic fields and facilities, drop-off zones, and parking lots. This course will include appraisal of school facilities and techniques for developing and using input from the community and building and program audits.

EDL 524 Educational Personnel Administration: Study of selection, assignment, evaluation, development, and release practices for certified and non-certified school personnel; salary and contract administration in schools. Study of labor laws, HIPAA, and FMLA.

EDL 526 Business Management in Education: Study of the business function in educational organizations with emphasis on budget development and administration, accounting, purchasing, risk management, support services, and capital outlay.

EDL 571 School and Community Relations: Study of the responsibility of classroom, attendance unit, and district personnel in public information efforts; design, use, and analysis of surveys; study of involvement of parents and other community members in resource, advisory, and decision-making activities; preparation of news releases and public information materials; study of relationships to media personnel.

EDL 573 Administration and Organizational Behavior: A study and critique of selected theories and research in administration and organizational behavior including topics such as leadership; formal and informal structure; communication; change and intervention; motivation and morale; interpersonal relations and conflict management; small-group processes; and personality, values, and ethics.

EDL 589 Superintendent Series “Leading Safe Schools”: This course of the Superintendent Series will give an overview of the concepts that relate to the superintendent’s role in establishing a safe school environment. School climate and culture; school security and facilities; emergency preparedness, response, and recovery; bullying and cyberbullying; and mental health and suicide are topics that will be covered, and each student will engage in a site authentic task and will provide evidence of the application of the knowledge gained in the class.

EDL 589 Superintendent Series “Leading with Technology”: This course of the Superintendent Series will provide current and future school superintendents with the understanding of what constitutes a technology-driven school district. Using the framework set forth by the U.S. Department of Education Office of Educational Technology (OET), whose mission it is to establish the vision for how technology can be used to transform teaching and learning, students in this course will engage in a site authentic task specific to technology leadership and will provide evidence of the application of the knowledge gained in the class.

EDL 589 Superintendent Series “Using Data for School Improvement”: This course of the Superintendent Series will provide students with the opportunity to evaluate what it means to lead a school with a focus on determining what meaningful data will lead to school success. Assignments will help students assess their own school’s use of data; will allow for exposure to research-based journal articles on the topic; and will connect them with a district superintendent to provide professional context for data-driven decision making.

EDL 589 Superintendent Series “Leading Through Mission, Vision, and Decision-making”: This course of the Superintendent Series will give an overview of the processes, strategies, and requirements a district superintendent needs to be aware of when creating her/his district’s vision and mission statements, with a site-authentic task assignment that examines the students’ current districts’ visions and missions. Different decision-making models with case studies will also be reviewed.

EDL 589 Superintendent Series “Leading School Governance, Policy, and Finance”: This course of the Superintendent Series will give an overview of the processes, strategies, and requirements a district superintendent needs to be aware of when called upon to be the key decision maker for the district’s policy-making and budgetary responsibilities. As the driver of school governance, a school superintendent needs to cultivate a respectful and responsive relationship with the district’s board of education, focused on achieving the shared mission and vision of the district.

EDL 589 Superintendent Series “Culturally Responsive Schools”: This course of the Superintendent Series will be based upon the District Level National Educational Leadership Preparation standard #3: Equity, Inclusiveness, and Cultural Responsiveness, which looks to “promote the current and future success and wellbeing of each student and adult by applying the knowledge, skills, and commitments necessary to develop and maintain a supportive, equitable, culturally responsive, and inclusive district culture.”

EDL 589 Superintendent Series “Professional Ethics and Norms”: This course of the Superintendent Series will provide students with the capacity to promote the current and future success and wellbeing of each student and adult by applying the knowledge, skills, and commitments necessary to understand and demonstrate the capacity to advocate for ethical decisions and cultivate professional norms and culture. (National Educational Leadership Preparation Standard 2)

EDL 589 Superintendent Series “Leading Personnel in Schools”: This course of the Superintendent Series will give an overview of the processes, strategies, and requirements a district superintendent needs to be aware of when leading the many employees and stakeholders within a school district. Authenticity within one’s leadership style will be examined in order to create a vision of the skills and competencies a new superintendent will want to establish when starting in a new district. Looking at different hierarchical and lateral diagrams of organizational structures will allow for students to see the many perspectives that need to be considered.

EDL 593 Internship in Educational Leadership: This is a culminating experience primarily for Specialist Diploma and doctoral students.

TL 250 Introduction to Education: This course is designed for students exploring the profession of teaching in early childhood, elementary, middle, or secondary schools. It is an introduction to the study of education that explores the foundations of education, how learners differ, and the social and political contexts of schools. Students complete a classroom field experience, explore related literature, and participate in role-playing, simulations, and peer-teaching.

TL 2900 Effective Communication for Educators: This course prepares educators to plan for their personal and professional development by understanding and using the principles of nonverbal/verbal communication; written communication; and interpersonal/team communication.

TL 2900 Personal Leadership Mastery: Students will learn about the importance of developing an individual leadership plan. In order to effectively lead others, one must be able to lead her/himself. Students will learn about and be able to apply the concepts related to creating a personal and professional vision; managing time effectively; and establishing and maintaining productive habits aligned to achieving their vision. Strategies associated with the learning objectives will be based upon the work of Cal Newport (So Good They Can't Ignore You) and James Clear (Atomic Habits), along with other personal development researchers and authors.

TL 2900 Understanding Leadership: This course, based upon the work of Peter Northouse, will be an introduction about what it takes to lead effectively. Everyone at some point is asked to lead; whether it is coaching your child's basketball team, directing a school curriculum meeting, or organizing your family's summer vacation...many situations require leadership. This online asynchronous 1-credit course will give an overview of different leadership theories and approaches; will provide a questionnaire that will allow participants to analyze their own impressions of the word leadership; and will help students apply their learning to a sample case study and observational exercise.
